"It is due to my being so thankful for the way our children have turned out that I feel I would like to help other teenagers in these difficult times."

The W. Clyde Wright family has indeed helped the students of OHS - the generous donation of various gifts to our school has made the name Wright synonymous with benevolent and supportive interest. No football game is complete without the presence of the scoreboard; no band concert, game, or parade is complete without the fine uniforms of the players. Next year's new OHS will include an indoor swimming pool for the use of all students. An appreciation for these gifts is felt by OHS students-many chances for personal growth and enjoyment have been made available through the patronage of W. Clyde Wright.

Originally from Cooperstown, the W. Clyde Wright family has made Oneonta its home for many years. Mr. and Mrs. Wright's three children all graduated from OHS and are presently enjoying various successes. Eight grandchildren complete the family portrait. The Wright's deep sense of family unity is a basic principle of their lives-and a concern for young people, in general, facilitates their involvement in OHS.

We students of OHS have experienced many educational opportunities in our years here--the education we leave with goes beyond mere book-learning. We have been afforded many opportunities for self-development, which were not in the budget, through the concern and generosity of an individual who cares about the quality of educational experience. With heartfelt appreciation we reach out and say thanks to a man whose thoughtfulness must not be overlooked --- Mr. W. Clyde Wright circles

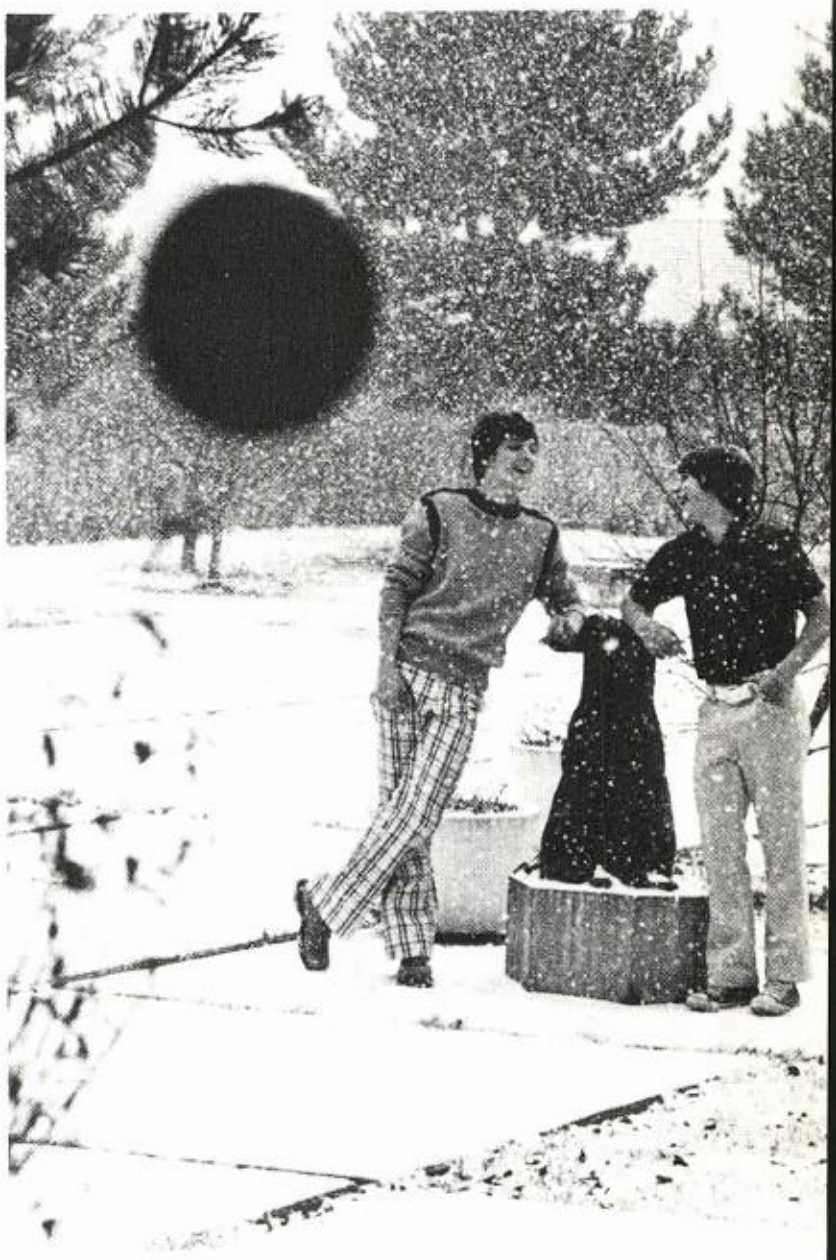
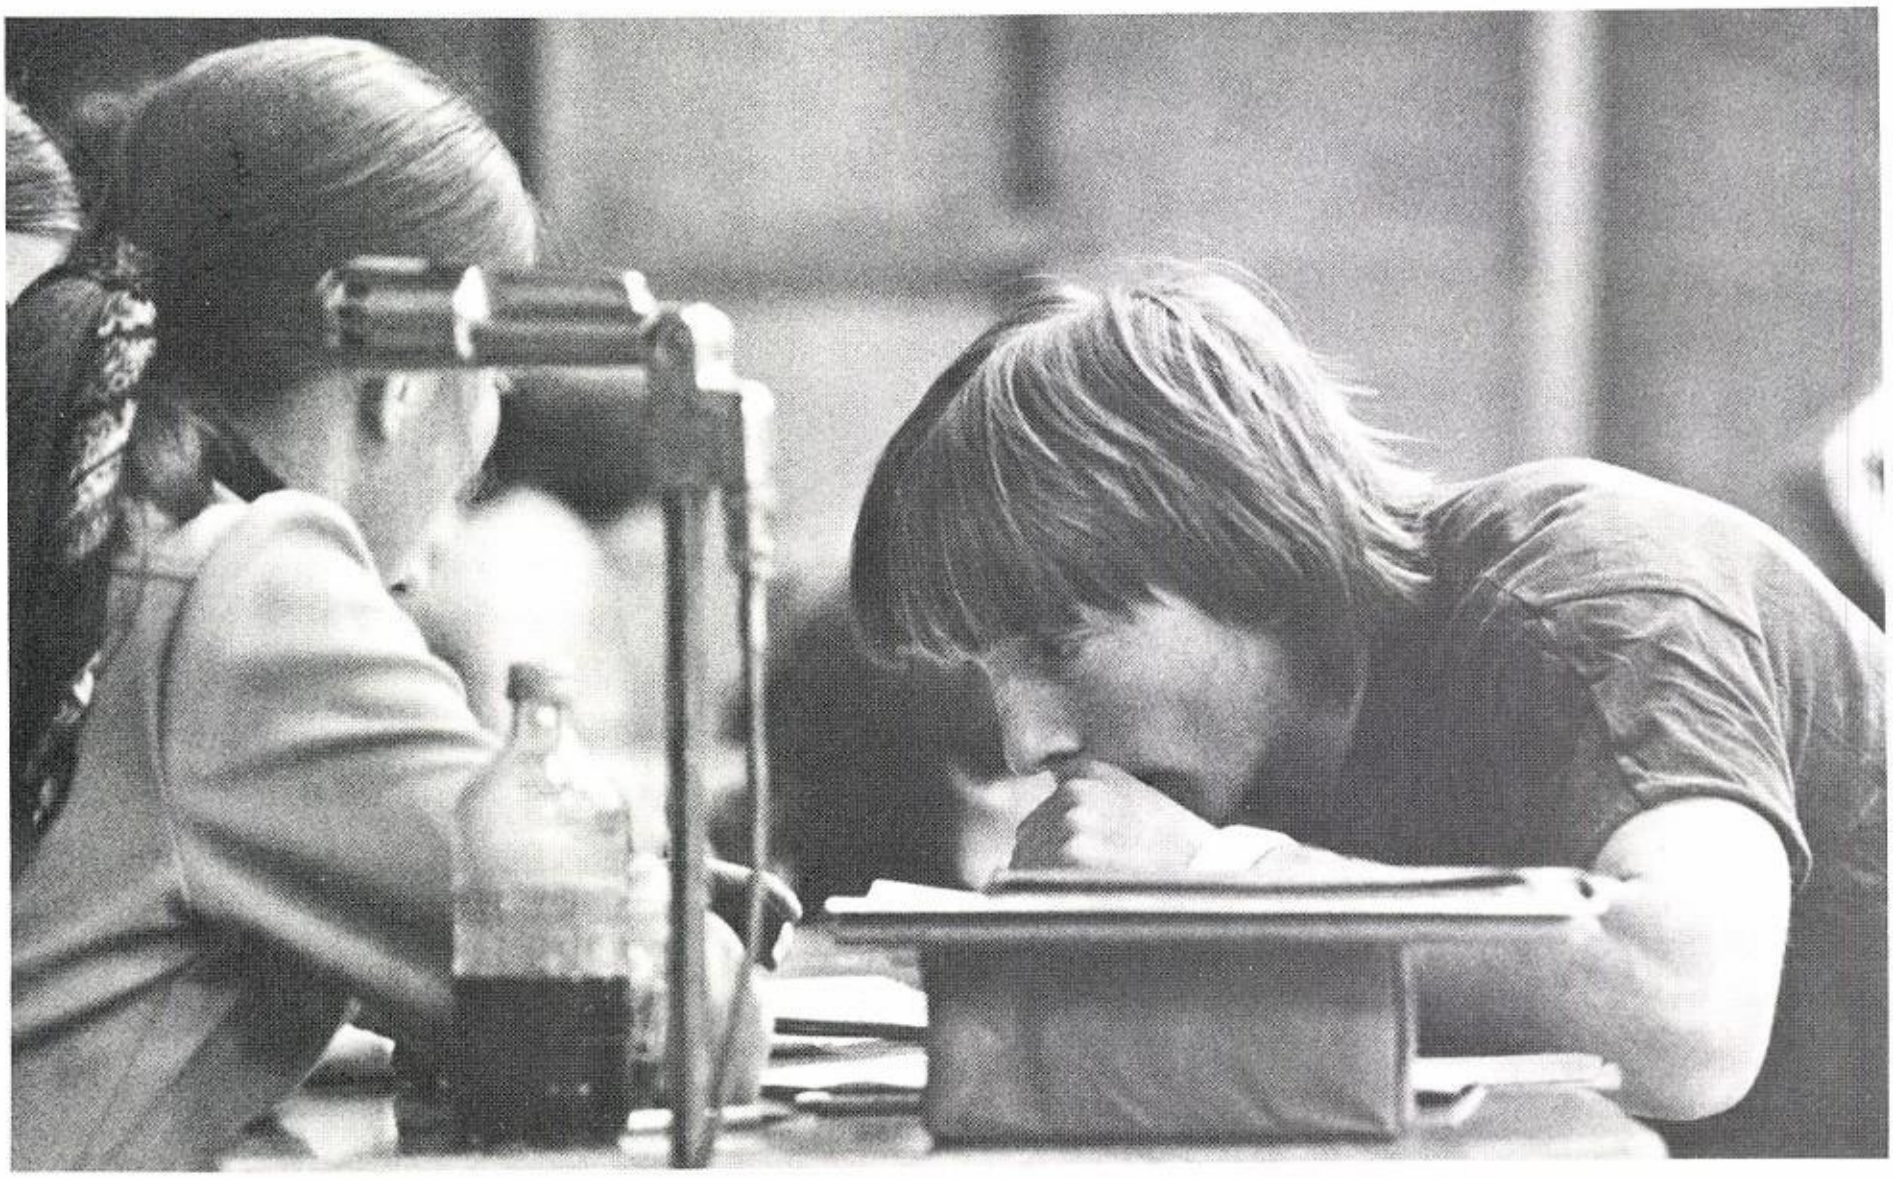
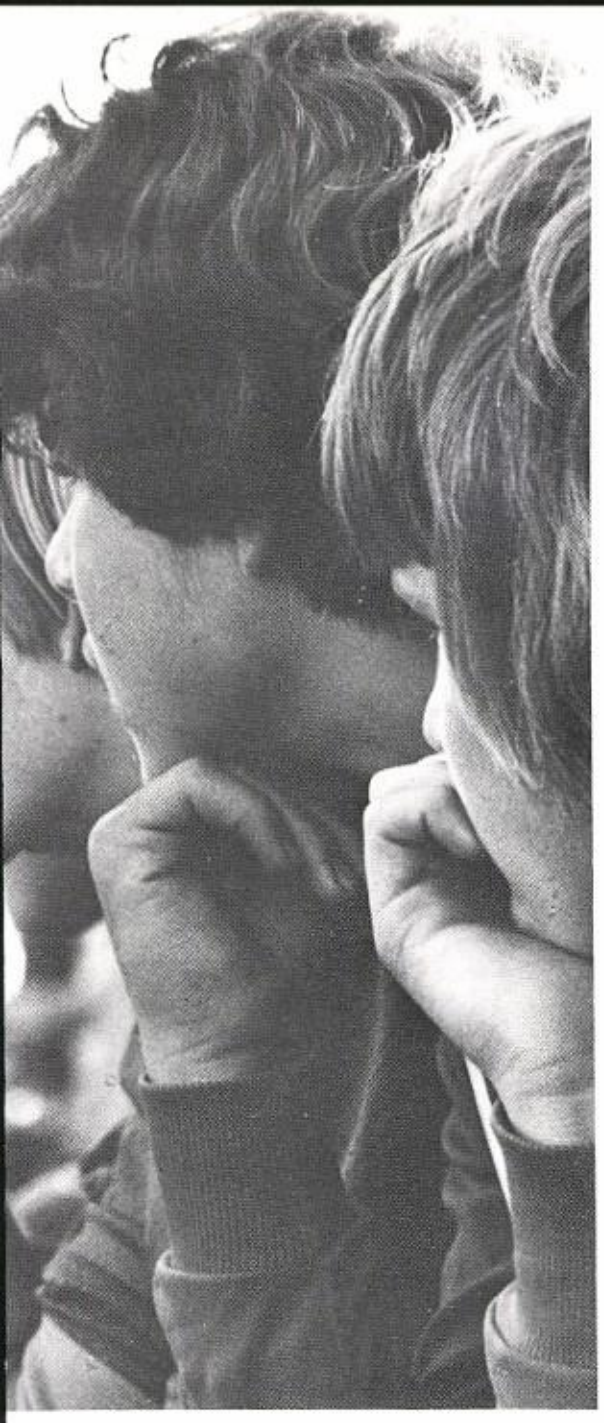
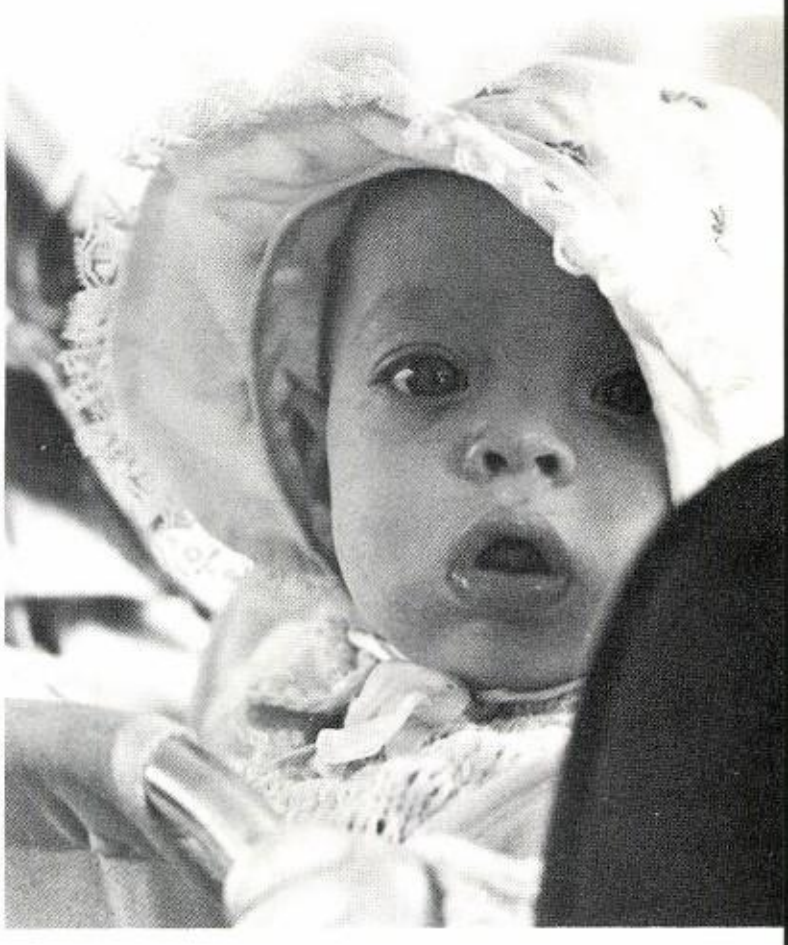
MARIJUANA







A sphere turns and a circle of light brings the morning. It is a good time. Time to be reborn. . .time to think. . .and time to dream.

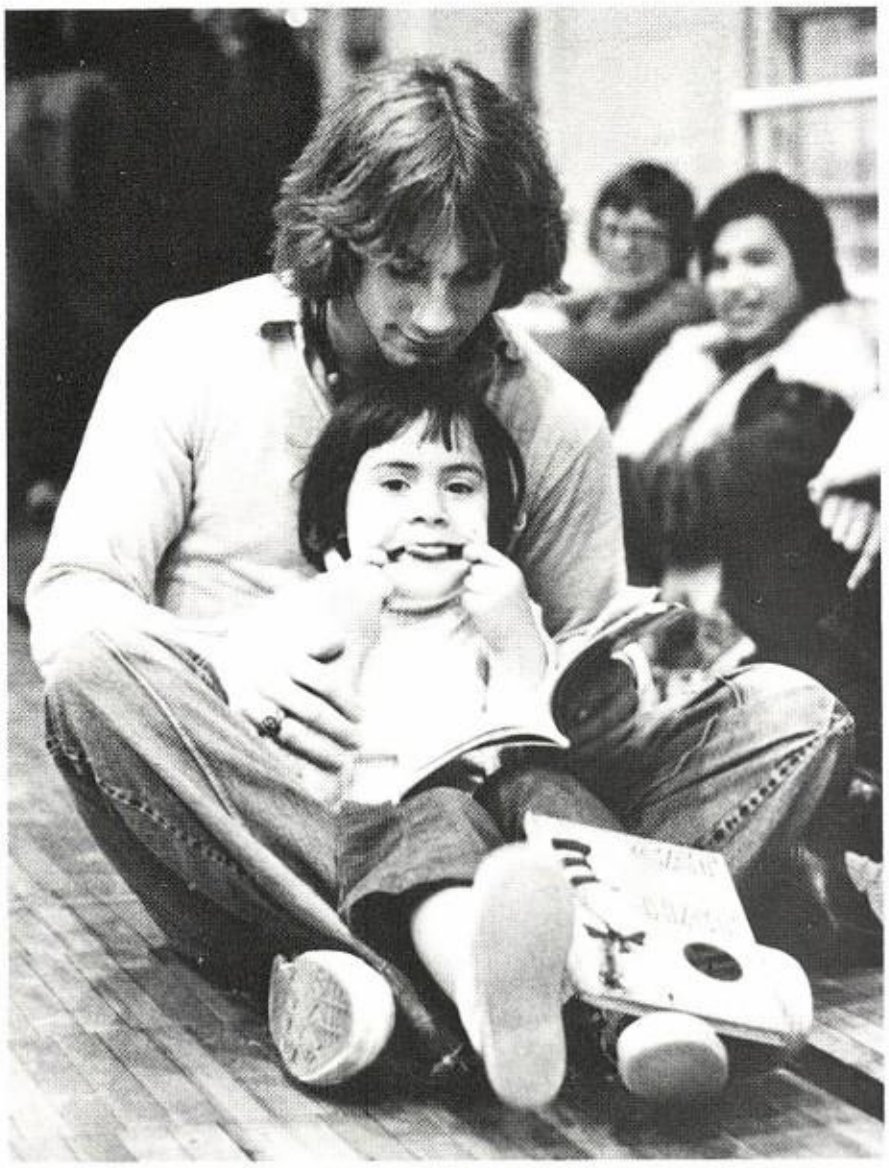


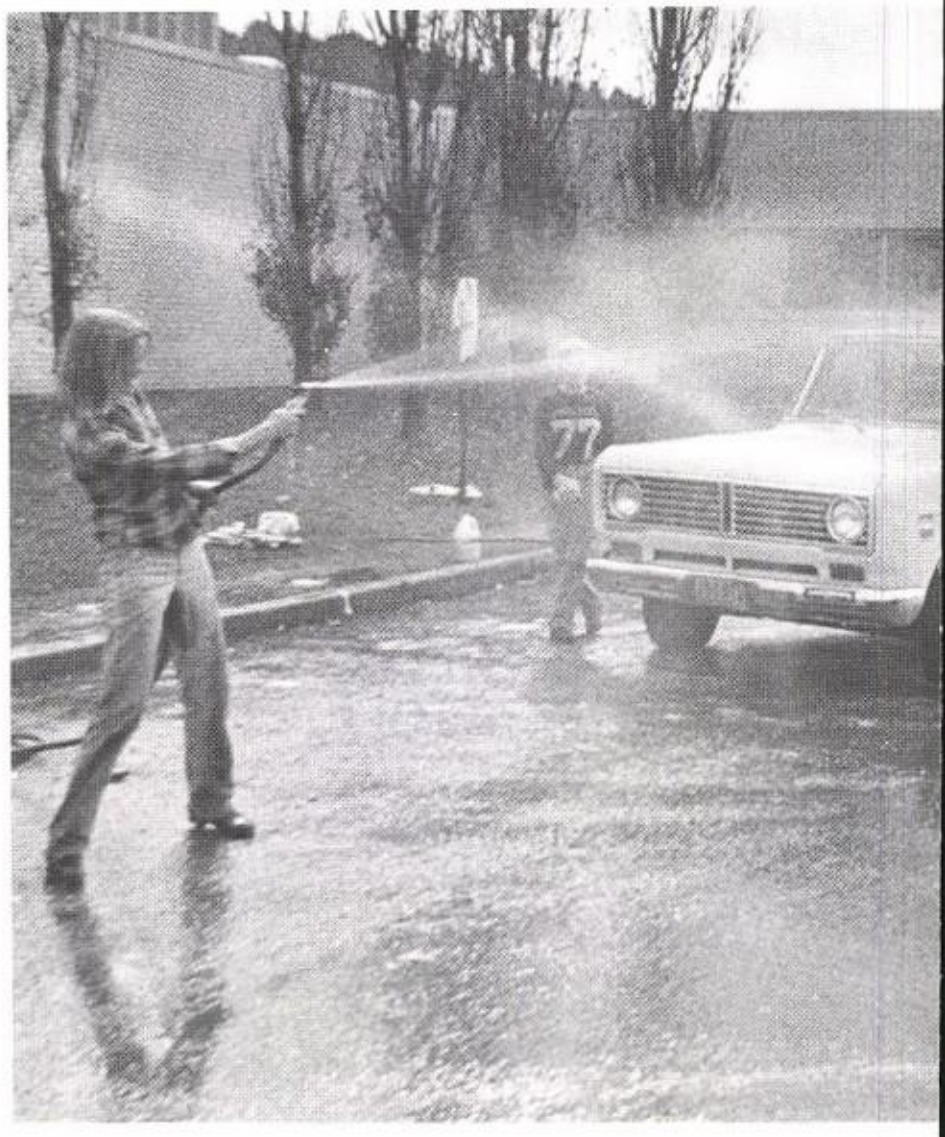
The earth's circles turn as the day progresses.

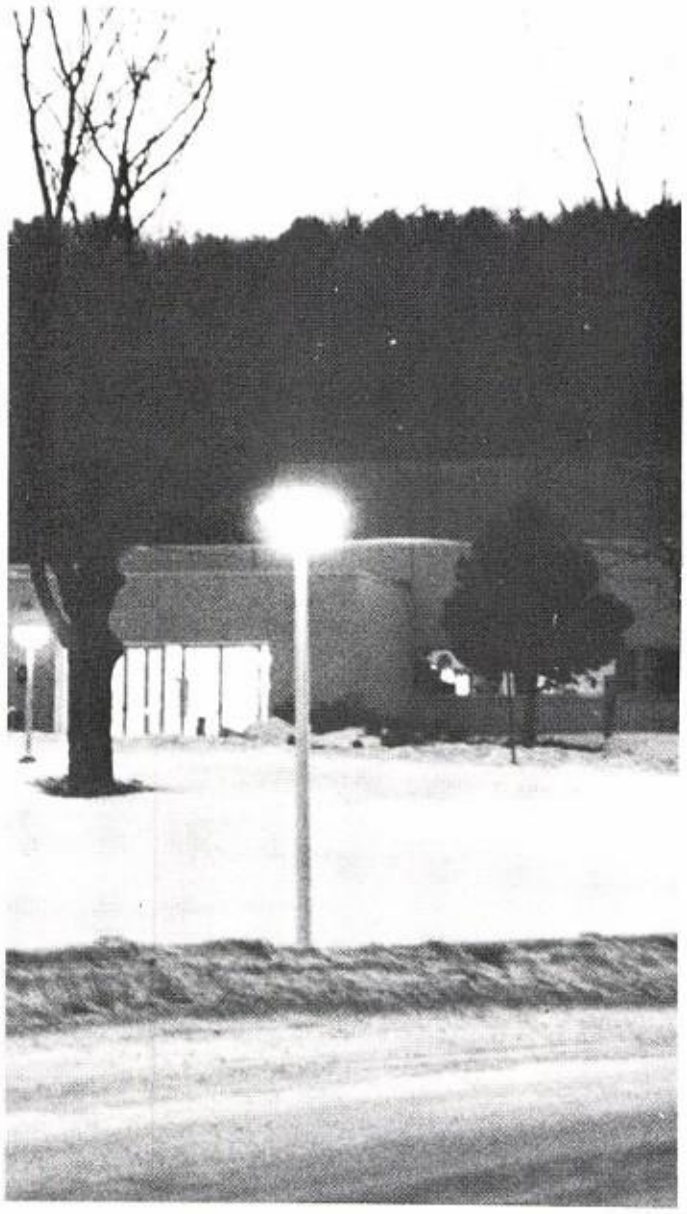
After a rain, a rainbow arches the sky. It s circles of color reflect more than dreams of gold and glory.

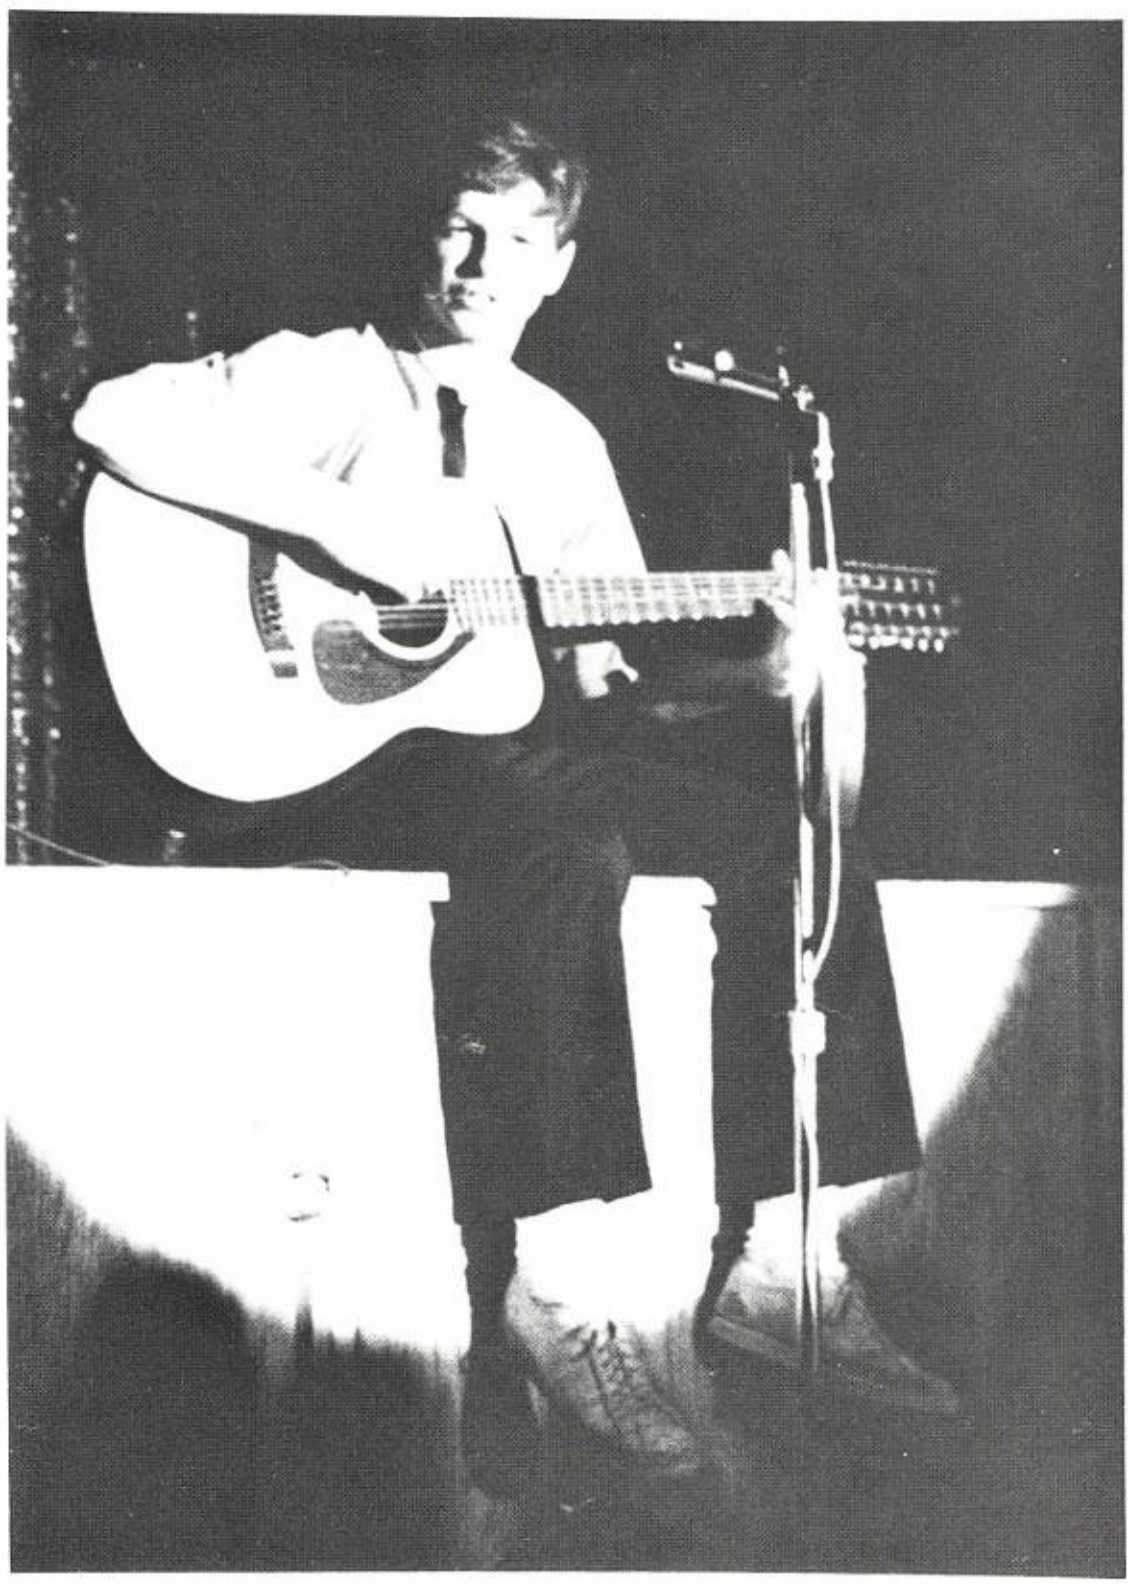
Sunset brings moonrise, a natural circle of one following the other.

The moon is a free circle as it floats among the clouds.





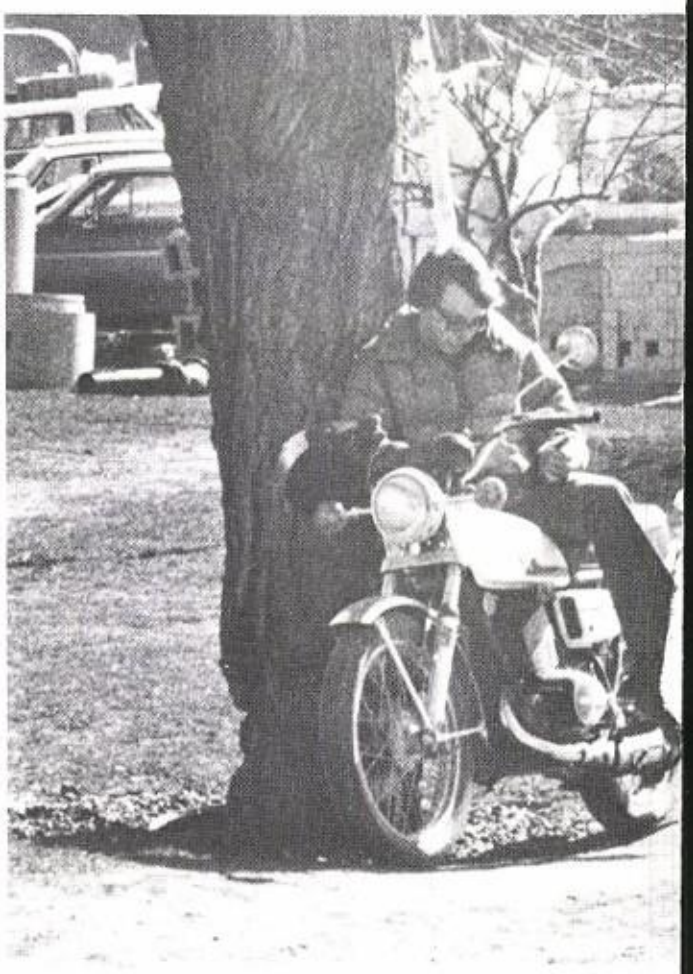


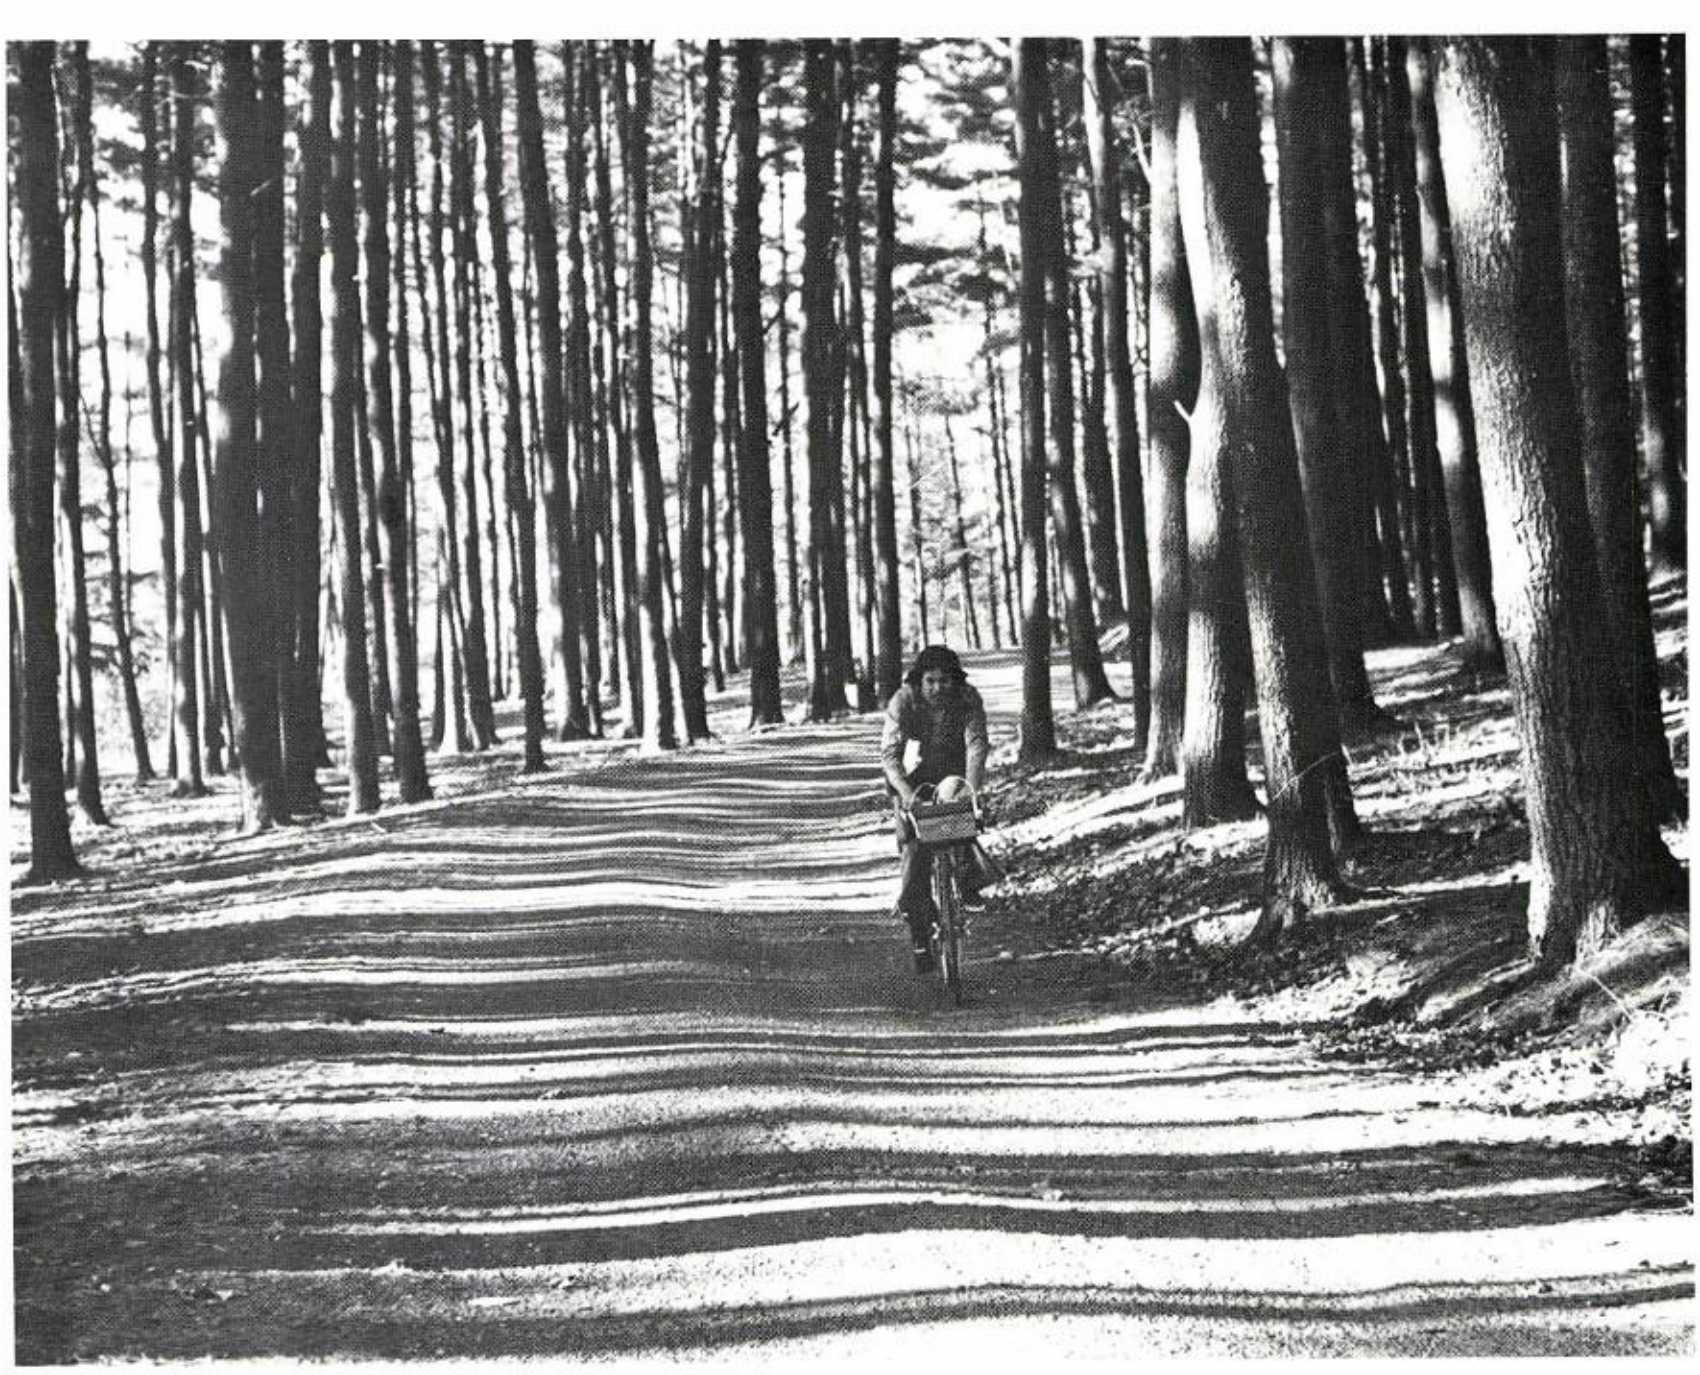


Humanity's growth brings a need for mechanization. We reach to the circle.

Gears mesh and wheels turn. The movement of these circles controls the movement of our soul, the movement of our nation.

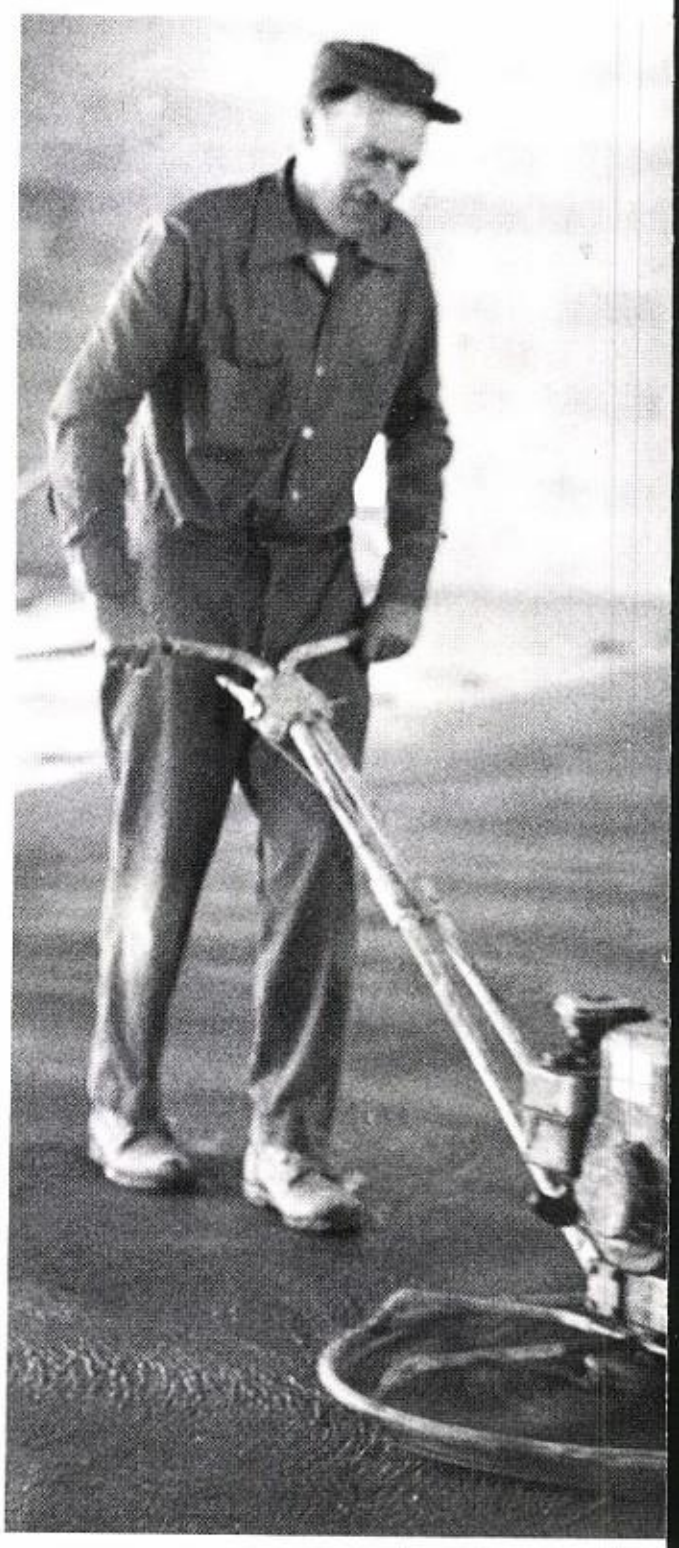
Circles are transportation, buses to school, cars to work and bicycles down old roads.

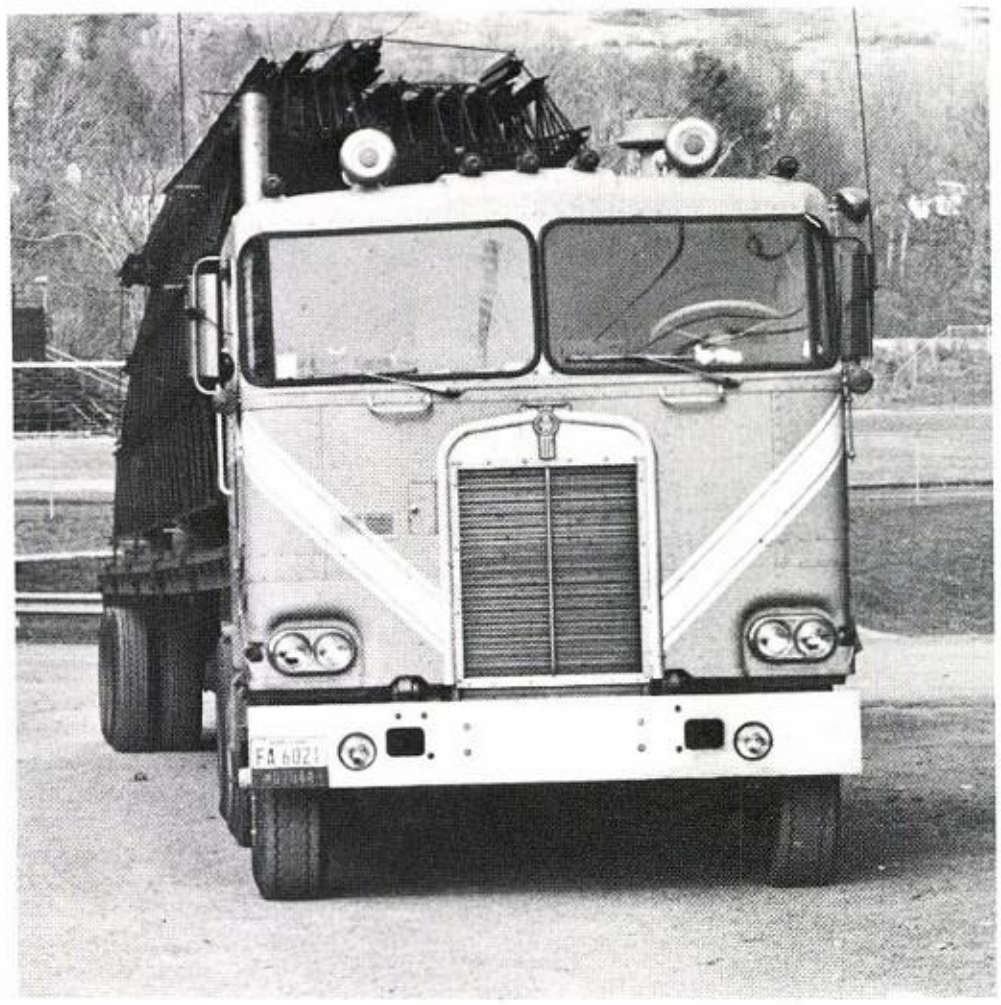


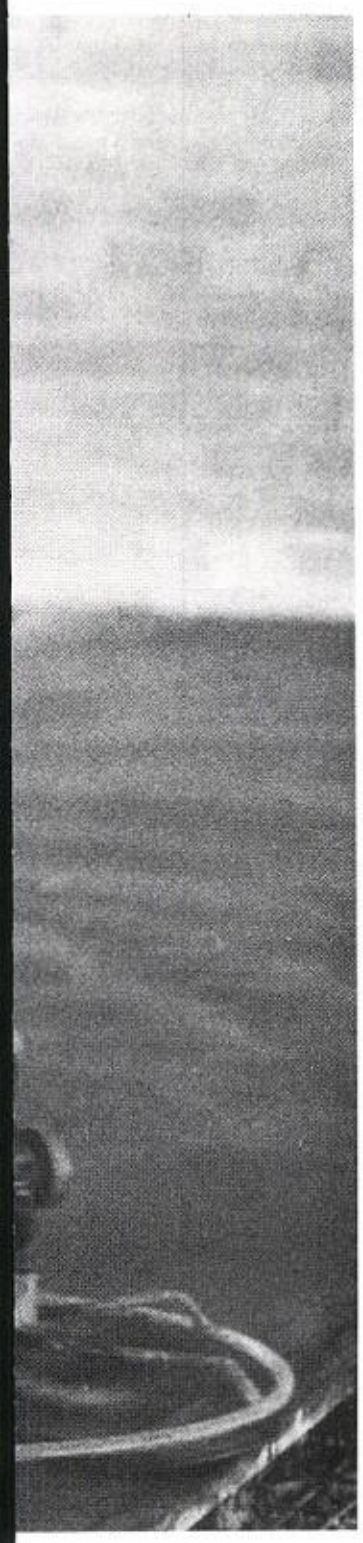


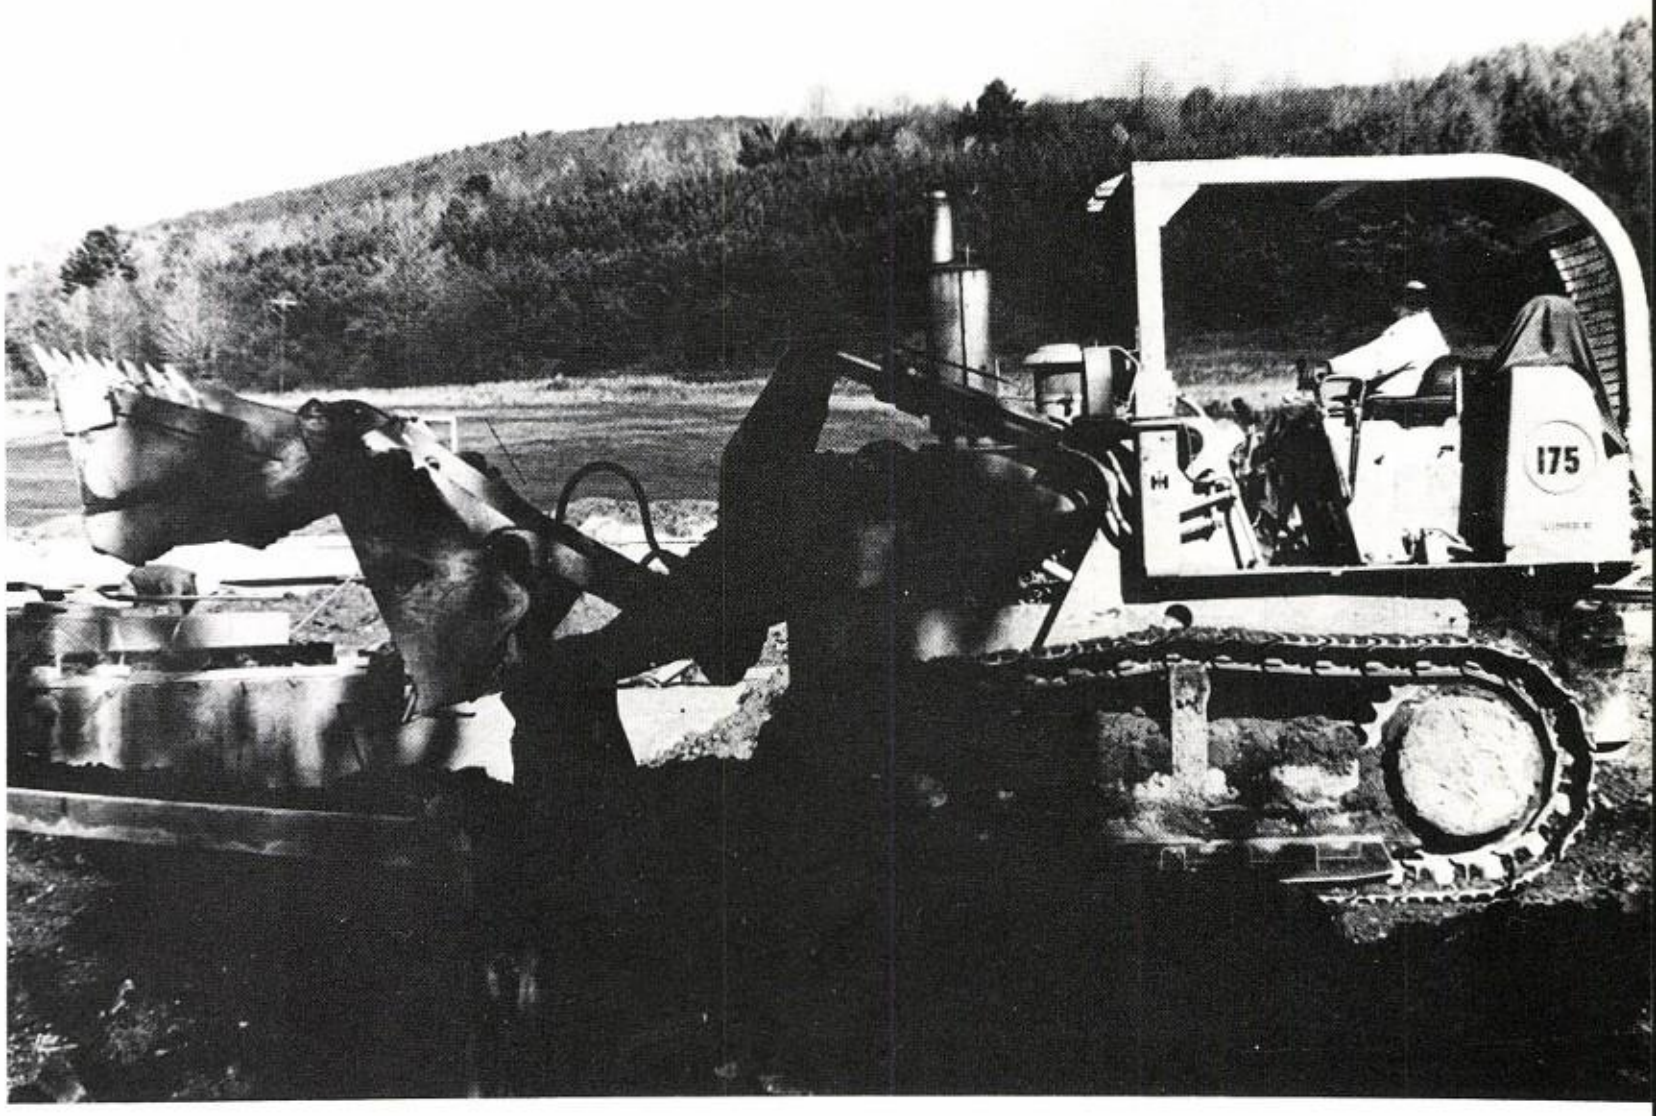
Ultimately, circles begin to be beasts of thought, not only beasts of burden.

Circles are computers, spinning off knowledge on each magnetic disc.









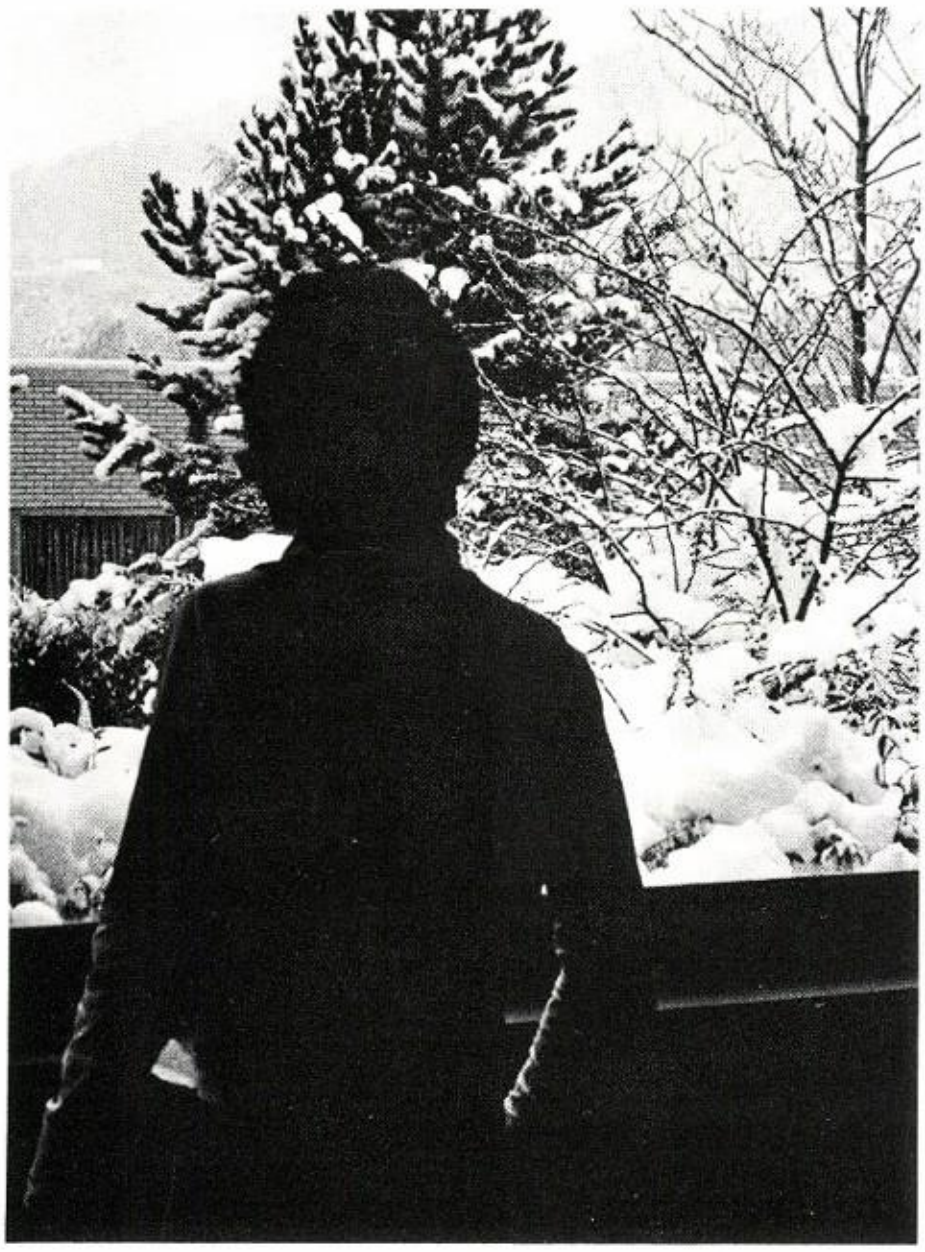
175

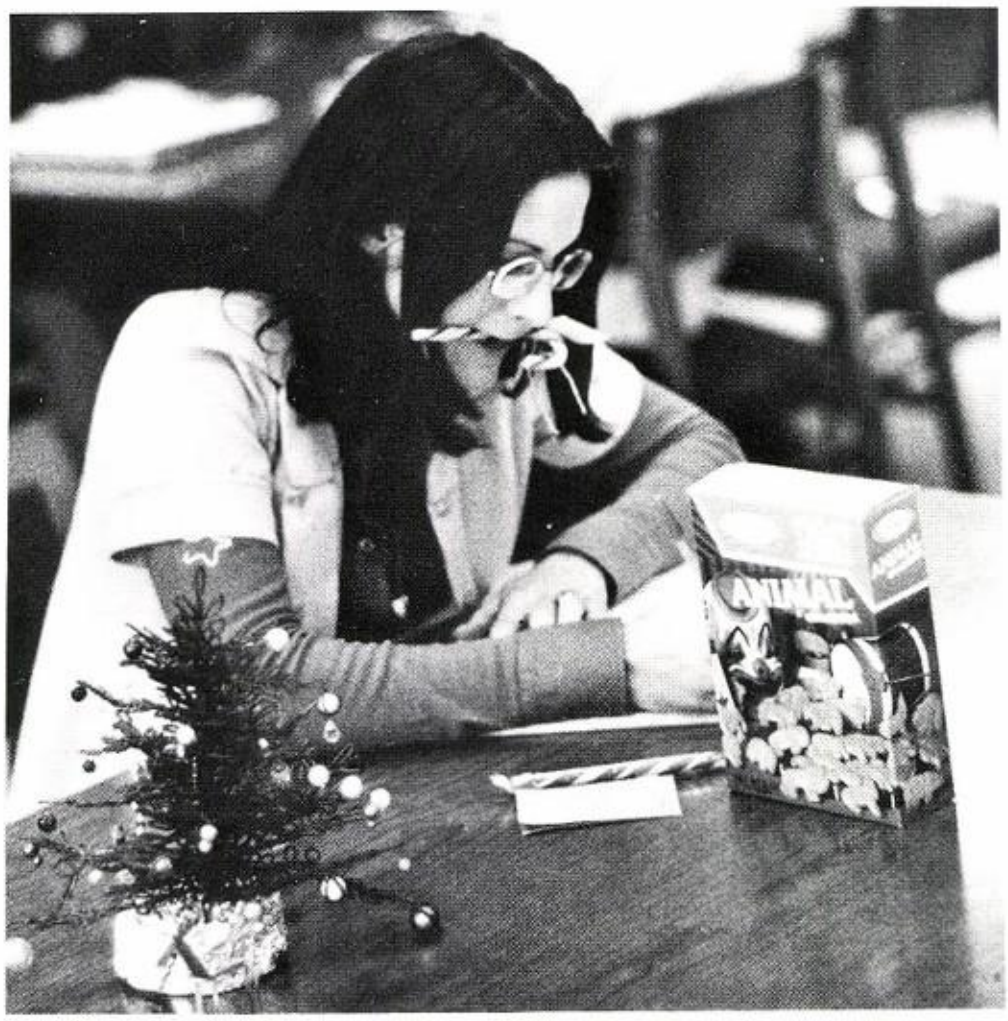
But progress still pulls more from the circle.

Scientists fill the circle with practical applications. They speak of the water cycle, of the orbitals of an atom and of circular motion and acceleration.

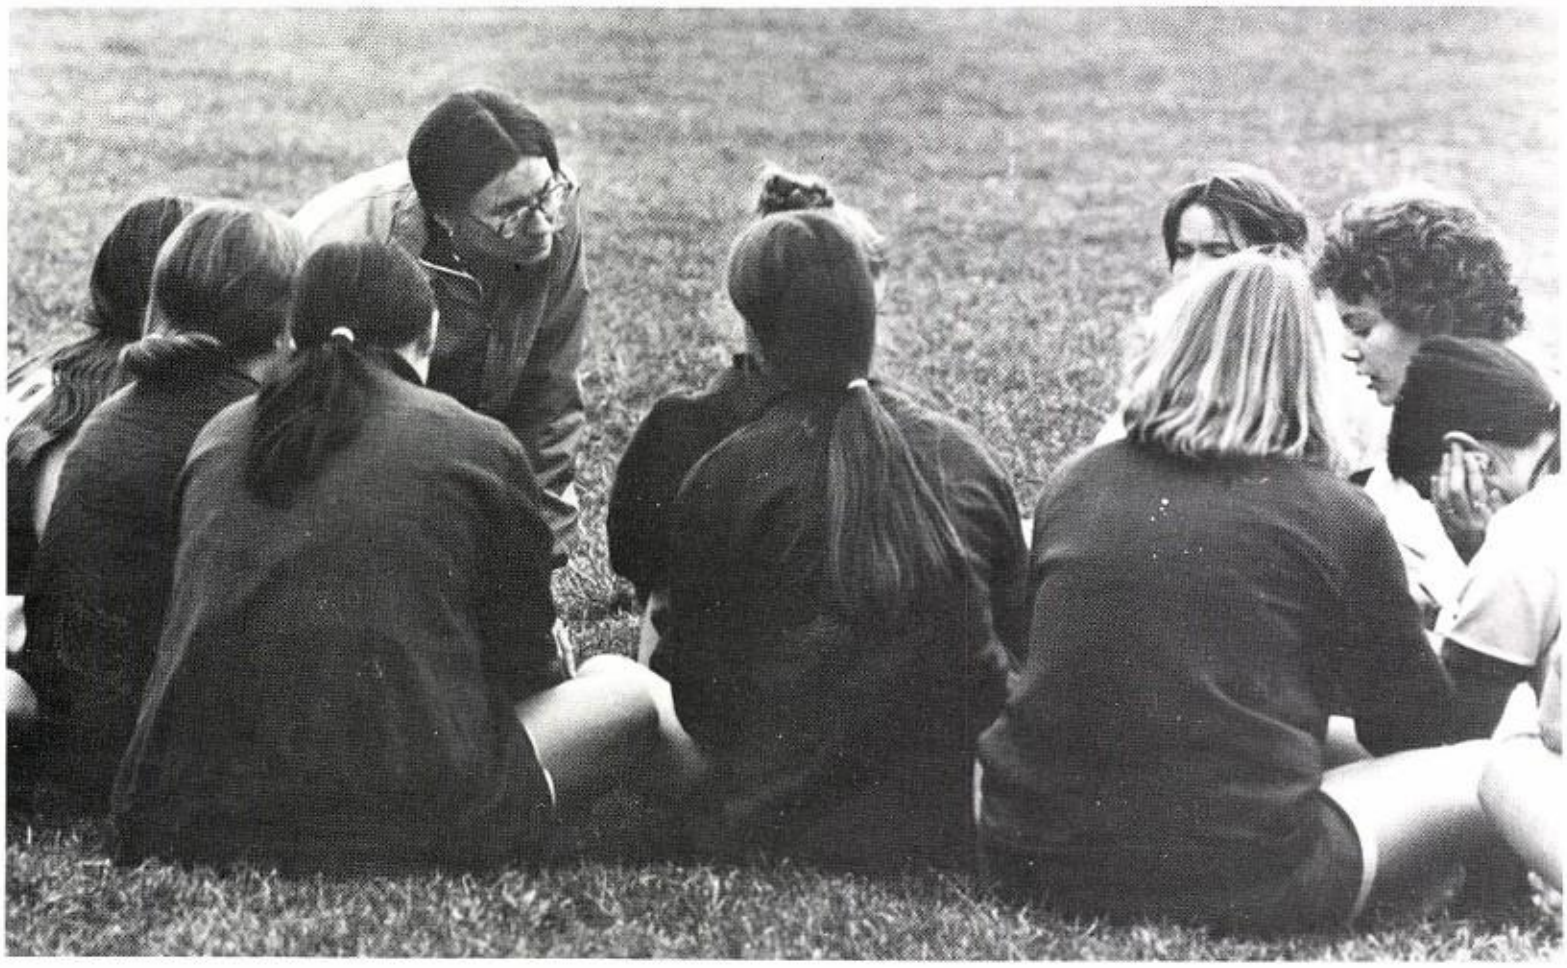
Before the circle is completed, it must touch our spirit, the inner marrow that distinguishes right from wrong, good from bad.

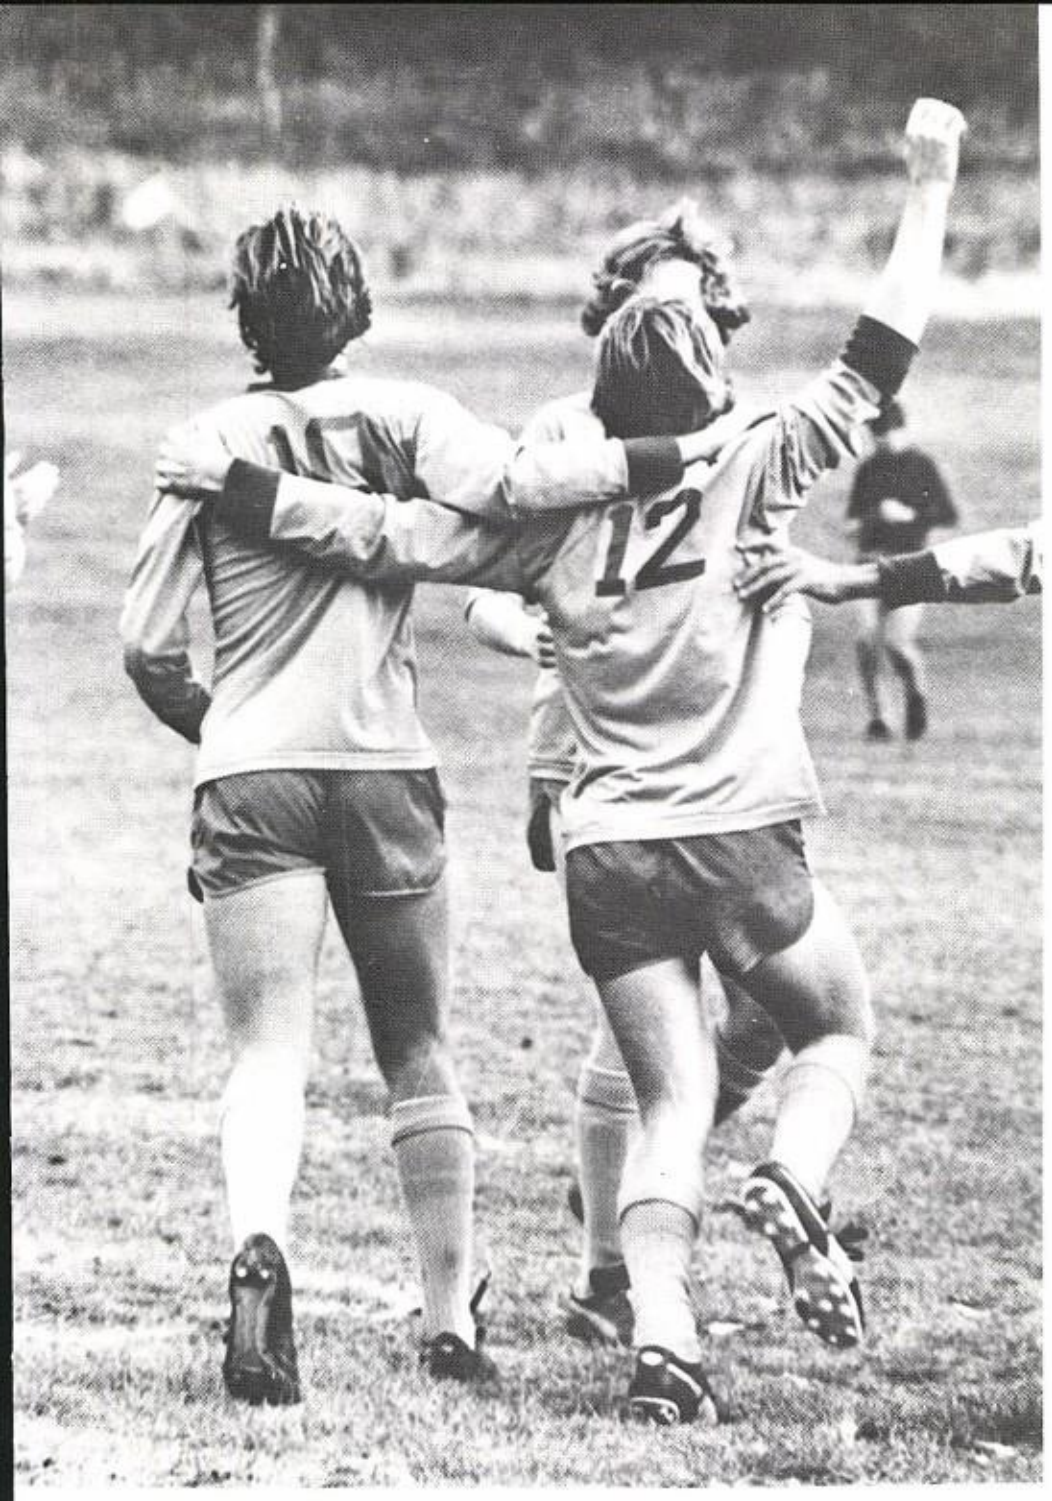
The circle is the symbol of all active forces and all passsive forces. These forces are equal, having no beginning and no end. They are a circle.





OATMEAL





To complete the circle, we must reach back to nature.

A circle is a sunrise, with warm hands held tight. . .a circle is a rainbow with dreams of gold. . .a circle is the dawning of a new peace, a new understanding, a new unity.

This year's theme states that man's life is a circle. It thus follows that each day, each month, and each year of man's life is also a circle, thus a circle within a circle.

Defining life in this manner can be restrictive and limiting or expansive and limitless. We can exclude people, experiences, observations and education or we can develop the diameter and circumference to be as inclusive as we choose. The problem is, once completed, our circles cannot be recast. Our personal circles for each day, each month, and each year should result in the greatest possible circle for life. Therefore, if our life's circle is to reach its potential we must cause each inner circle to expand to its greatest possible dimension.

Ginny LeClair's career stretches from the days of World War II to this, our bicentennial year. During this time she has served youth of all ages from kindergarten through college. Always one to accept a challenge, she started right out with an unusual one. Hired to teach in South Otselic at a time when many potential coaches were overseas, she soon found herself in charge of boys varsity basketball; her team won the league championship. From this auspicious beginning she went on to teach, run intramurals, advise cheerleading, and coach in Peru (NY), Walton, Broward County, Florida and Saranac Lake. Then, in 1958, she decided on Oneonta.

Outside of her "regular classroom duties," Ms. LeClair's major contributions during these eighteen years have been to revamp and revitalize Girls' Leaders Club, and to create a thriving intramural program that is envied throughout the state. Her goal has always been to run the total physical education program for the benefit of the greatest possible number. Activities should be available to everyone, not just the specially skilled. Putting theory into practice, nine sports are offered for the enjoyment of the OHS distaff population.

Ms. LeClair's tenure in Oneonta has been a significant and positive one-we hope her retirement will be, as well.
